

Postcard to My Aborted
Jenifer Browne Lawrence

—  —

too young to harden flower in the heat of a garden you span the earth perception spins roots from slow to petal to silk dropped pink by pink outside your window a star opens spent blossoms and I wander