

Shadow

Tish Pearlman

Even the unwilling are born, letting go as the traveling unfolds
The first cry is for some other beginning on some other land in another time
Born then, and no place to call home.

